

Why a donor-advised fund may be right for you

Did you know that a donor-advised fund can help you make regular giving a part of your financial plan?

A donor-advised fund (DAF) is a Canada Revenue Agency-approved charitable giving option that has become one of the most efficient ways for individuals, families, and corporations to manage their philanthropy.

Canadian Charitable Giving Pulse Check survey

In the recent Mackenzie Investments Charitable Giving Survey, we discovered that only 18% of Canadians are aware of donor-advised funds. However, once it's explained to them, 39% would consider using one for their charitable giving.

Here are five reasons why a donor-advised fund may be right for you:

- 1 Low-cost alternative: A donor-advised program is a convenient and low-cost alternative to establishing and running your own private foundation. You can make recommendations to direct funds from your account to the charity or charities of your choice and the Foundation will take care of the administration.
- 2 Tax efficiency: You receive an immediate donation tax receipt for your ongoing long-term support of your favourite charities. No capital gains taxes are realized on gifts of appreciated publicly-traded stocks or mutual funds/ETFs. Plus, you can make use of the donation tax credit in the current year or any of the following five years. - 3 Convenience: You can continue to work with your current financial advisor to oversee your foundation account. The Mackenzie Charitable Giving Program simplifies your charitable giving experience by handling all of the administrative tasks (i.e., record-keeping, grant reporting and tax receipts) for you.
- 4 Flexibility: You have flexibility in the choice of investments in your charitable giving account, how much in grant money flows to your charities each year and which charities you wish to support.
- 5 Leave a lasting legacy: You can give your account the name of your choice. You could name it after a family member, a lost loved one, or a cause you champion. Every time a grant is sent to a charity, the account's name is cited as the source of the gift. You can also choose to give anonymously.

The Mackenzie Charitable Giving Program makes giving more convenient and powerful, helping investors give back, grant to charities, and grow their impact now and in the future. It also helps charities. Through the good and the bad times, your charities receive a stream of funds without fund-raising themselves.
